Local Bank Plans Expansion

resident Jack Alef of the Grayling Bank today announced two steps in the expansion program.

The first of these was the announcement of the board of directors of the Grayling Bank has applied formally to the State Banking Department for permission to establish a branch in St. Helen. Primarily a resort town, St. Helen has grown tremendously in the last decade.

"I feel very strongly," President Alef said, "that towns such as St. Helen deserve operation of forward looking banks in Michigan. For that reason our board of directors has requested permission for the establishment of a branch. We believe a bank at St. Helen will aid even further in the growth of the community has experienced."

President Alef stated that the State Banking Department has not as yet given its approval to the application. However, it was learned that examiners for the State Banking Department have been in both Grayling and St. Helen, the response of the local residents in St. Helen to the idea of a bank has been almost unanimously enthusiastic.

The second step was the simultaneous announcement by President Alef that the board of directors and the stockholders of the Kalkaska State Bank yesterday voted to request a merger with the Grayling State Bank.

"Our stockholders will meet on September 19th," President Alef said. "At that time we will formally present to them the terms of the merger. Our board of directors has already indicated its favorable approval. We feel that a merger of the two banks will do a better service to the citizens of the two communities. We are looking forward to a very close cooperation with and service to our friends in Kalkaska."

Five Local Men Quoted On Subject

The Crawford County Avalanche in this issue is awaiting possible action tonight (Thursday) by the Grayling City Council on a proposed sale of the generating system of the municipality to Consumers Power Company questionnaires on their thoughts on the subject.

First approached was Fred Bear, president of the Bear Archery Company of Grayling, the largest source of employment in the city and quite possibly the largest user of electric current. Mr. Bear in answer to the query stated:

"In response to your inquiry concerning my opinion as to the proposed sale of the City Electric Plant, I have this to say: 'Inasmuch as an uninterrupted source of power is a necessity for the successful operation of our business, we have at Bear Archery Company, have been concerned about this problem for quite some time. It has frequently been brought to our attention that the engines at the plant are not in top operating condition and there is a grave possibility of a breakdown at any time. Our thinking on the problem at hand, therefore, is that the offered price is certainly more than fair and it would seem to be an excellent opportunity for the City to release itself from a burden.' Bear stated.

"In recommending the sale of this utility I do so on the basis that an understanding be reached with Consumers Power Company to make sure that a monopoly type situation 'not be created allowing free rein in increasing rates,' he concluded.

The next person questioned on the proposition was John Alef, president of the Grayling Light Plant. Mr. Alef stated his beliefs in four separate points. Mr. Alef stated:

"It seems that we are actually paying for electricity through our regular billings and again when we pay our annual taxes. I do not believe we can count on to compete with larger utilities once atomic power is a reality, and I think that it would be wonderful to eventually have a fine, new city government headquarters in the city. I believe that the sale of the light plant property," Mr. Joseph continued.

"Certainly, our own light plant served a very useful purpose, and it is being sold. I believe that the sale of the light plant property, Mr. Joseph continued.

"The fourth Grayling man interviewed by the Avalanche on the proposed sale of the light plant was Dr. H. H. Hennig, M. D., of the Keyport Clinic. Dr. Hennig told the Avalanche of his feelings in the matter in the following statement:

"I feel it would be advantageous for the City of Grayling to sell the light plant to the Consumers Power Company," the doctor stated.

"We will receive value for our money and the plant is old and would soon need replacement and for the distribution system which now is in need of extensive repair and soon would need complete replacement," Dr. Hennig concluded.

The fifth and final Grayling businessman quizzed on the proposed sale of the City of Grayling generating system was Grover Cason, owner and operator of Cason's coin-operated laundry and developer of the Up-State Shopping Center. Prior to these ventures, Mr. Cason was a successful motel operator in Grayling, for several years. Upon being questioned on the subject, Mr. Cason stated his thoughts in the following statement:

"I consider the offer made by Consumers Power to be a very fair one, and I would strongly advise the Council to sell the plant to the Consumers Power Company."

"The time to sell a horse is before it goes lame, and it strikes me that we already have a lame horse here in our plant. An efficient, clean plant is not supposed to put out the smoke he plant does. Coming in from the south of town sometimes it looks as if we have a steel mill in town from the looks of the cloud of smoke arising over town from the plant," Cason continued.

"In my business, I am quite concerned about continuous service. In the past I have always patronized our city plant out of a sense of civic responsibility, in the event that this offer from Consumers should be rejected and the plant should be kept in the city, I believe I would be free to secure power from whatever source that would give me the greatest assurance of uninterrupted service," he stated.

"If the city were to retain the plant and have to adjust rates or taxes, I'm almost certain that Consumers Power would get a substantial portion of the commercial business served by the city, thereby reducing the income from the plant rather than increasing the income," Cason explained.

"The choice is simple... are we going to invest $500,000 of city money to keep this plant and at the same time be obligated to spend Lord knows how much tax and bond money in the next few years to stay in the power business or are we going to sell the plant for $500,000 and work towards it or in government bonds which will net the city $100,000 to $150,000 per year. I say sell," Cason concluded.

Frederic Youth Honored By Woman's Club

John Cross, 18 years old was commended this past week by the Frederic Woman's Club for his bravery and concern for the safety of the young children of his community.

Recently the young man pointed out to a member of the Club that a partially uprooted tree at the top of a sand hill in Frederic was a potential hazard to the safety of the children who frequently play there. In the event of a strong gust of wind, this tree could be blown down and against the electric wires which crossed over it.

The Frederic Woman's Club brought this to the attention of the Township Supervisor who immediately had the tree cut down. Frederic citizens are grateful to John Cross who noted this hazard and asked that the danger be removed for the sake of the children. A letter expressing this gratitude was sent to John by Mrs. Jean Rouse, president of the Club.

The Housewife Knows Best . . .

People in the government, as well as out of it, are always seeking new controls of one kind or another over business, on the theory that this is necessary to protect the public.

So an editorial appearing in the Portland Oregonian very much in point. It observes: "The U. S. senators have given themselves the assignment of protecting American housewives against the wiles of packagers and labelers of foodstuffs ought to visit our supermarket."

The housewife we know best doesn't need a senator help her. With her beady, little robin eyes missing nothing, she moves from shelf to shelf, hefting packages and studying labels and prices. Click, click, goes her electric brain, as she discards the odd-sized package with the flamboyant label, and tucks another into her cart. She is the acme of caution and perfection. She efficiency personified. Shopping is her job, and none does it better.

This tribute, as any producer or retailer can tell you, is hard experience, is thoroughly justified—and it is for all of the housewife's shopping, not just food. She may make an occasional mistake, but she isn't repeat it—hers is an elephant's memory when it comes to appraising the comparative qualities of competitive products. The concern which produces an inferior product—or the store which stocks and recommends it—is asking for economic oblivion, and that request is usually fulfilled in a hurry. The housewife, seeing the local stores, knows how to make a dollar turn a hundred cents worth of value.

Mass production and mass retailing would not have won as they have by mass trickery of the consumer.

When "Cheap" Equals "Expensive"

We've all heard about the "cheap power" sold by the Tennessee Valley Authority and other socialized plants and systems.

And many of us have wondered how this economic shievery was possible.

If you're among that group, some facts released by the Kentucky Utilities Company will help you find the answer.

In 1960, the four investor-owned electric companies in Kentucky paid 14 times as much in taxes as the TVA, rural electric cooperatives, and 22 municipally owned systems in Kentucky combined. The figures were $3 million for the private utilities—$1.8 million for all the public outlets.

And this vast difference in taxation was not due to a difference in worth or investment. The four investor-owned utilities have an investment of $475 million while that of public power, the bulk of which is owned by TVA, is about the same—$490 million.

The report also points out that TVA is expected to pay $750,000 in lieu of local taxes in fiscal 1961; on nearly $300 million worth of property in Kentucky. Investor-owned companies would pay more than $3 million to state taxing agencies alone on this invested amount—to say nothing of federal taxes which TVA does not pay at all.

When the facts are revealed, it becomes clear that "cheap power" is mighty expensive from the taxpayers' point of view.

A U. S. Super Dixie Highway association has been formed which includes members from nine states through which this super highway will run. The proposed highway will extend from Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, to Miami, Florida, with a branch-off at Atlanta, Georgia, through Birmingham and on to the Gulf of Mexico. This association is the result of the Government's plan to construct super-highways from east to west in this country and the highway will be a two-lane with parkway in the center.

Amos Hunter has operated his dairy business from his basement for a period of seven years. He has often thought it would be better if he had a store separate from the dairy. With the one entrance there is too much confusion as milk comes in from the farm, together with noises created through the daily routine while keeping equipment clean. Therefore, he is renting the building of Mrs. Holger Schmidt which has been known in the past as the Sandwich Shop. Its location is next to the M. E. Church. From here another milk route will be operated and it will be known as Hunter's Aulsebrook Dairy.

A bridge luncheon of very lovely appointments was given by Mrs. O. W. Hanson at her summer home at Lake Margrethe, Tuesday afternoon. Some twenty-five guests were served on small tables scattered throughout the rooms and on the porch. Grayling Kiwanians and their ladies enjoyed the annual Kiwanis canoe carnival down the AuSable and a dinner at Edgewater resort Sunday. The weather was delightful and the down river voyage amidst the scenic beauty of this noted trout stream is one long to be remembered. It is quite unusual, out of a large flotilla of canoes floating down the swift AuSable River that some one doesn't get a ducking. This time there were no upsets, but Mr. and Mrs. Roy Trudgion and Mr. and Mrs. Holger Peterson occupying one canoe, were enjoying the trip when Mrs. Trudgion decided to transfer her wristwatch to the other wrist. Well, the watch dropped into about five feet of water. She couldn't lose her fine watch so Hazel dove to the bottom but failed to get the watch. There it was, bright and shiny lodged at the bottom of the river. Hawk came to the rescue. He said "I hate to do this" and slid out of his pants and shirt and went to the bottom and rescued the missing jewelry. Outside of the two being drenched to their skins, everyone had a marvelous time.

SAFE AS AMERICA
SAVINGS BANKS

ACROSS the DESK

From the South Pasadena Review, Santa Barbara, Calif.:
Saves are back in style!
More Americans than ever are saving more money than ever. During the last ten years, the number of Americans with some form of savings increased at the rate of a million a year. Also, the number of depositors with bank savings accounts jumped more than 18 million to a total of 83.5 million people or 47 percent of the U.S. population. All told, Americans now have more than $100 billion in bank savings accounts. Perhaps this trend reflects a feeling for the times. For it's going to take plenty of dollars in the decades ahead to meet a challenge of unparalleled growth. Our population will increase 28 million to reach 208 million people by 1970. They will require 16 million new jobs, 14 million new Special meeting of the City Council held on August 17, 1961. A special meeting of the City Council was held on August 17, 1961 for the purpose of a meeting with Consumers Power Company.

Meeting called to order by Mayor McWilliams at 8:00 p. m. Members present: McWilliams, Gothro, McNamara, Hoffman and Giegling. Members absent: None. City Attorney Moore present.

Citizens Present: Clifford Peterson, city accountant, Walter Marzani, B. D. Hills and Mike Porter of Consumers Power Company.

Mr. Hilly of Consumers Power Company read the following letter addressed to the Mayor and members of the City Council:

To the Honorable Mayor and Members of the City Council of Grayling, Michigan: Gentlemen:

At the invitation of the Council this past May our company was invited to make a study of the complete electric system for the purpose of presenting an offer for the purchase of that system. In the time of this study, a inventory of the total electric system was taken by our engineers and accountants. Since that time the system has been evaluated by various considerations, among which were the value of materials and equipment to us, the cost of supplying adequate and good power, the future potential of business and the disposition of personnel now employed by the electric department.

As a result of the above considerations, the Consumers Power Company offers $425,000 cash to the City of Grayling for its electric system with the following provisions:

1. The City will retain title to the building in which the diesel plant is located and the diesel plant. The Company to be given without rental or fees a year's time from date of purchase to remove the generating facilities.

2. The City will retain title to the land associated with the diesel generating building excepting a portion thereof for a sub-station site (or will provide a site at a suitable location elsewhere).

3. The City will employ with the Consumers Power Company somewhere in our operating area homes and $200 million in new investment. Hundreds of billions of dollars will be needed to foot the bill!

Look at it this way: the experts predict that ten million new households will need shelter, jobs and services equal to at least what we have now. How much will it cost to set them up? Perhaps $50,000 to $60,000 per family!

Where's the money coming from? Largely from individual savings, say the nation's bankers. A strong dollar, they point out, encourages savings, helps to hold the price line and deals a lethal blow to inflation.

The bankers go on to say that the dollars of individual savers are America's secret weapon. For a continued high rate of growth in our living standard is the best answer of a free economy to the Red challenge!

Guardman Is Kind To Animals

CAMP GRAYLING — SFC Floyd Jordan is $7.50 poorer today, all because he is by virtue kind to animals.
Sgt. Jordan, a member of the Hamilton, Ohio, unit of the 37th Infantry Division which is winding up its two-week training here, arrived to find a mother ground squirrel and three small squirrels had made a home in his tent. Touched by this, Sgt. Jordan allowed the animals to remain, only to find later that the animals gnawed large holes in his government blanket.
Destruction of government property results in reimbursement by the individual responsible. Thus Sgt. Jordan will dole out $7.50, cost of a replacement blanket, to the cause of animal betterment.

"All That Glistens Isn't Gold"
Estimating the condition of a used car is a job that requires an expert. But any motorist with ordinary car sense can spot some of the more obvious faults that show up in a brief inspection.
Here are a few of the things we look for at Welsh Motor Sales. They may help you avoid making an obvious mistake.
Wear on mats, pedal pads and upholstery give a good indication of mileage and are accurate guide than the speedometer. Normal use for a car is 12,000 miles per year though mileage in excess of this is not necessarily a bad sign if the car has been well cared for.
Look along the fender in a good light for signs of previous heavy body damage. Body damage becomes important when a collision is sufficient to twist a car's frame. A car will sometimes never operate properly after that, though minor collision damage is unimportant.
While the engine is warmed up, press lightly on the accelerator. Uneven sounds, heavy clucking or knocking can mean future trouble. This is a good time to check for worn rings since several pumps on the gas will send blue smoke from burning oil out of the exhaust pipe.
A test drive will tell even an inexperienced person much about a car's condition. The word "test" means a word of warning thought over an expert can be fooled unless he makes a thorough mechanical inspection such as we perform in our shop. Your guarantee is still a dealer you can trust.
